

Sea Aire Park is 5.16 acres and is located at 22730 Lupine Drive. It was acquired in 1953. The land was previously fields of lupine flowers. It was named in 1956 as a result of a park naming contest that was held for school children by the Parks and Recreation Commission. Sea Aire Park is adjacent to Seaside Elementary School and the Sea-Aire 9-hole golf course which was dedicated on September 2, 1957.

The park and playground equipment was dedicated on July 25, 1959. Mr. Paul Salzburg, a well known artist in the media of concrete, donated a playground "climbing" sculpture and a seven-foot cowboy's head. He lived in Torrance and did commercial concrete sculptures for Knott's Berry Farm and other points of interest in the Southland and has had exhibits of his work in many art exhibits in California. He was commended and praised for his civic pride in donating this valuable work of art to Sea-Aire Park. A plaque was placed upon the structure and a formal dedication took place on July 23, 1960. This park also has a picnic area, and recreation building (with a meeting room and kitchen).
